ANOTHER RESULT OF COMPETITION

It is not so long since we were assured by the opponents of the Grand Trunk Pacific that "Western wheat could never be profitably hauled by rail to the Atlantic seaboard." This was the old and the calm decision of Sir William Van Horne founded on the experience of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Elsewhere the Bulletin prints a despatch from Winnipeg stating that the C.P.R. will during the winter ship 2,000,000 bushels of wheat all rail from Fort William to St. John. The reason of this we are given to understand and by the despatch is that an American vessel had accepted a cargo of wheat at Fort William for Buffalo and that the patriotism of the C. P. R. could not stand for this diversion of Canadian wheat to American channels. This horrible prospect we are assured determined the company to revise the opinion of Sir William Van Horne and carry wheat by rail from Fort William to the Atlantic seaboard.

It strikes us as worthy of remark that the patriotism of the C.P.R. appears to coincide with the pecuniary advantage of the situation, and to have been brought to the surface only by the rude disturbance of prospective competition. The patriotism of the C. P. R. has never urged that corporation precariously near the verge of bankruptcy to prevent a blockade of western wheat at the Lake ports and thus minister to the benefit of Canada as a whole and of the West in particular. But the appearance of competition and the prospect of a loss of trade arouses all the latent loyalty of the C.P.R. and launches it upon the ruinous course of shipping wheat all rail to the Atlantic.

The C.P.R. is fortunate in the brand of patriotism; this quality is not often so akin to business prudence.

THE RESULTS

Not before in a Canadian province has a election elsewhere has a Government received such decisive endorsement from the people. Not only have the Liberal members been returned for twenty-two and possibly twenty-four ridings but more than one third of the Opposition candidates failed to secure votes enough to save their deposits and the Opposition leader is numbered among the fallen.

Now for four years of progressive government. This was the fundamental issue of the campaign; it has been made the all but unanimous demand of the electors and must become the serious business of the administration. The efforts to detract public attention from the real question of Provincial concern failed to deflect the public judgment or swerve the public sense and despite the noisy disputations of disunionists the people discerned the real question of the hour and sent the Government back with overwhelming approval to continue a policy of harmony and development.

While the value of a numerically strong and vigorous opposition is generally known and admitted, never was an electorate more justified in turning down a party hitherto beloved than the people of this province in putting the Opposition decisively out of business. To the stupendous folly of attempting to stamper the electorate on irrelevant issues that party added the affront of asking that the public affairs of the Province be handed over to an employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The result is not more an endorsement of the Government than a condemnation of the Opposition.

It was especially desirable at this juncture that the Government be returned not only by a majority, but by a strong majority. Whatever may be the dangers of an inefficient Opposition they are less than the dangers of a narrow majority. A Government whose existence depends on the favor of a member or a small group of members, is in no position to inaugurate or carry out a broad, constructive policy or to administer without fear or favor the affairs of the Province. Yet in the adoption of such policy and such administration lies the only hope of laying securely the foundations of Provincial greatness.

It is a matter of congratulation that the victory was not more decisive than general. The Government holds power not by the favor of one section of the Province in despite of the other sections. The southern ridings went as generally for the government as the central and northern constituencies. The contest can not be construed as in any sense or to any degree a strife between the South and the North. The verdict is the verdict of the Province as a Province and as such administrators a just rebuke to those who endeavored to foster sectional feeling by raising local issues.

The opportunity of the Government is great. It holds power by the consent of the people regardless of race or residence and in this is at once the opportunity and the duty to do full justice to all and to accede more than this to none. That the Government will meet the opportunity and fulfill the responsibility is the confidence of the people.

WHEAT HAUL WHEAT BY RAIL

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—The Canadian Pacific has arranged to ship 2,000,000 bushels of wheat from Fort William to St. John, all rail. The big carrier Rogers was chartered to take 350,000 bushels from Fort William to Buffalo at five cents per bushel, netting the owners $21,000 for the single trip. It will likely retain it in its bottom all the winter, unloading in the spring. The wheat going to St. John will be used as ballast on the Canadian Pacific boats on their first winter sailings from St. John, instead of securing cargoes from Chicago as in the past. The company will give a low all rail rate to wheat shippers, thus retaining the trade for Canadians.

AS TO THE PUBLIC LANDS IN SASKATCHEWAN AND ALBERTA

(Free Press)

In the course of the election discussions now being carried on in Saskatchewan and Alberta it is interesting to observe how careful the attackers of the lands arrangements in the charter Acts of the new Provinces are to fight shy of the question of what the lands were worth to the Provinces, if the control and administration had been handed over to the Provincial authorities instead of being retained by the Dominion. Mr. Haultain and Mr. Bennett are striving to make it appear that because the Federal control and administration of the public lands is continued, a grievous wrong is suffered by Saskatchewan and Alberta. But neither Mr. Haultain nor Mr. Bennett, nor anybody else, makes any attempt to present any figures in support of this contention, and for the best of reasons.

When the test of figures is applied to the "deprivation and wrong" which Saskatchewan and Alberta are asserted by Mr. Haultain and Mr. Bennett to be suffering, the "deprivation and wrong" vanishes. Instead of suffering deprivation and wrong, the new Provinces are found to be the beneficiaries of a permanent arrangement in their favor in respect of the public lands, which is without precedent in the record of the treatment of any of the elder Provinces.

Without again going into the discussion of the grade of policy which make it incontestably in the best interests, both of the Provinces themselves and of the whole Dominion that the ownership and administration of the lands should continue to be vested in the Federal Government—the policy which has been followed in the case of every creation of a new state in the Republic to the south, and which is set forth with the weighty reasons in its support in a Privy Council report dealing with the case of Manitoba by the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald, already quoted in these columns—it is worth while to note the financial contrast between the actual position of the new Provinces under their Charter Acts, and the position they would be in if their Charter Acts gave them over the public lands to have and to hold, and to deal with as they pleased.

In lieu of the public lands, each of the new Provinces receives from the Dominion $375,000 a year until the population comes up to 400,000, when the annual receipt on Lands Accounts rises to $562,500. When the population reaches 600,000 the sum will be $750,000, and when each of either Province contains 1,200,000 people, it will receive $1,250,000. This is to be in perpetuity.

In addition to these liberal terms, the new Provinces are to receive for the construction of public buildings an annual allowance of $93,750 each, for each of the first five years, or a total of $468,750 each. With the grant of $50,000 for civil Government, and the per capita subsidy, which starts at $200,000 a year each, and the debt allowance (on account of the Dominion having assumed the pre-Confederation debts of the old Provinces) each of the new Provinces will have from the Dominion for the first five years an annual revenue of $1,241,250.

This will increase until, when the population reaches 1,200,000, Saskatchewan and Alberta will each receive from the Dominion $2,220,375 annually.

If the lands were handed over to the Provinces, the Provinces would have to shoulder the cost of the expense of the maintenance of the Lands Offices, including salaries of staffs, cost of homestead inspection, surveying, etc. Last year the management of the Lands Department alone for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta resulted in a net loss to the Dominion of $150,000. If Saskatchewan and Alberta were called upon to pay each one-third of this amount it would mean a loss to each of $50,000. The deduction of this amount, in addition to the deduction of the grant in lieu of lands, $375,000 yearly, and the special grants for public buildings in lieu of lands, namely, $93,750, would cut down the amount of the net subsidy to $805,375.

Next would come the question of the Immigration work. If the Provinces had the ownership and control of the lands they would also have to assume the Immigration service, and in order to get the same results it would have to be kept as efficient as the Dominion service, which last year cost about $900,000. Saskatchewan's one-third share of this expense would be $300,000, and Alberta's the same. Deducting this expenditure from the Dominion subsidy leaves only $505,375. The maintenance of the Mounted Police would also have to be taken over by the Provinces, if they had sovereign control of the lands. This item of the Dominion expenditure in the Territories last year amounted to $500,000. This would mean a further deduction of $250,000 for Saskatchewan and $250,000 for Alberta from the annual grant to each from the Dominion treasury. The annual grant would thus be cut down to $55,375.

And this says nothing of the maintenance of the Indians. The Dominion is under treaty to maintain the Indians in consideration of their having turned over their lands to the Dominion and agreed to live peaceably on the reservations.

With only $55,375 of annual revenue from the Dominion—instead of $1,241,250 annually for the first five years, increasing eventually to $2,220,375 annually—each of the new Provinces would of necessity have to either do away with the free homestead policy or resort to direct taxation. The opinion was expressed in Parliament by Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservative party, that if the Provinces were given the lands "it would be the task of good statesmanship to have inserted, if necessary, a provision with regard to free homesteads," meaning that the Provinces should be required to continue the free homestead policy. Mr. Haultain dodges the question of the continuance of the free homestead policy. But the fact remains that either that policy would have to be discontinued, or direct taxation resorted to. There is no other alternative.

If the maintenance of the free homestead policy should, as Mr. Borden declared, be made an essential condition—though how the lands could be handed over by the Dominion with any such limitations, it is difficult to see, and if it were done, it would mean the beginning of an agitation for the removal of any and all limitations upon the Provinces' control—or, if the Provinces, having full control should continue to enforce the present Dominion homestead regulations, which are so vital to the up-building of Western Canada and by consequence to the welfare and progress of the whole Dominion, then the "public lands" which the Provinces could administer for revenue, would mean only part of the old-numbered sections. The even-numbered sections are reserved for homesteading and for the Hudson's Bay Company. From the odd-numbered sections must be deducted the immense area of railway land grants made by the Conservative Government up to 1896. From

HEAVY SHIPMENTS

Yorkton, Sask. Nov. 11.—Yorkton is almost completely blocked with grain. 250,000 bushels have already been shipped and 220,000 are now in store here, which is almost the total elevator capacity. Twice the C.P.R. has sent special trains of empties to relieve the congestion but the space immediately fills again. It is expected that 2,000,000 bushels will be shipped from here this season, making Yorkton one of the biggest grain shipping points in the country. Your correspondent counted seventy wagons beginning in grain to town at one time today.

to be deducted the school lands. The school lands are fixed arbitrarily, but the odd-numbered sections must also be deducted. In locating their land grants were allowed to pick and choose. The odd-numbered sections that would be available for administration by the Provinces are, therefore, the residue of lands that have been picked over. Upon much of this land the Provinces would have to expend money for irrigation. It is land of varying quality, and being residue as it is, a certain proportion of it is anything but land of the best quality.

It is thus not to be wondered at that the advocates of the turning over of the public lands to the new Provinces by the Dominion fight shy of any attempt at figuring out that the generous financial provision made for the new Provinces is not larger than any probable revenue that they could get from their own administration of the public lands, even if they administered them for revenue purposes. In fact, Mr. Haultain in his well-known letter to Sir Wilfrid Laurier of March 11 last, is thus on record.

"I am not unwilling to admit that an immediate income, increasing with population and certain in amount, may not in the long run, prove quite as satisfactory as any probable net income resulting from local administration of the public domain."

If the free settlement policy were continued, not only would the Provinces derive no revenue from land sales, but the immigration work would be more costly and less effective than at present, and the Provinces would have to put their shoulders to the task of bearing the expense of it which they have not to do under the arrangement established by the autonomy legislation. Again if the Province administered the lands for revenue and curtailed the benefits of the present free settlement immigration policy of the Dominion Government, both Alberta and Saskatchewan and the whole Dominion would suffer from the decreased volume of immigration. Well may Premier Scott declare that Saskatchewan cannot afford to risk any test case on the lands feature of the autonomy legislation—"whose only effect," as he has said, "if successful would be to rob the Province of the hard cash advantages of an excellent bargain."

HAROLD JARVIS

Strotheona, Nov. 11.—A very enthusiastic audience crowded to the large assembly room of the Grand street school last night on the occasion of the appearance of Harold Jarvis with a number of talented artists. The first number a piano duet was charmingly rendered by Miss Crawford and Kemp. Mr. Jarvis' first appearance in "Lend Me Your Air" from Gounod's opera showed that he was in excellent voice and his rendering was repeatedly applauded. "James Slen Lesson" was recited by Miss McAmmond in the designated manner which is rapidly making this declamation a favorite with Alberta audiences. The songs "Beat Upon Mine Little Heart" and "Sing Me to Sleep" (on request) as sung by Mr. Jarvis revealed his power in the expression of soft and pleasing effects. Mr. Richardson in a violin solo won favor of the audience by the excellence of his execution and was warmly applauded. Mr. Jarvis' rendering of "Rory Daring" brought such a strong request from the audience that he sang "Oh My Those Tears" as an additional number. Mr. Richardson's second selection on the violin "Air Varie", Dr. Burch was a pleasing treat for the audience. By request Mr. Jarvis sang "The Instant" "Sweet Sullivan" instead of "The Girl" which was to have been the program. Miss McAmmond's recitation of that favorite selection "The Wanderer's Courtship" was a charming bit of impersonation. Mr. Jarvis then sang "Highlanders" in a way that gave joy to all good Scotchmen and as an encore sang "The Irish Girl" for the special satisfaction of the Irishmen present.

Again responding to an encore he sang "The Girl" "Sweet Sullivan" as piano solo by Miss Crawford and Kemp was followed by "The Girl of the Glen" as given by Mr. Jarvis. As his final number Mr. Jarvis sang the President's birthday hymn, "Beautiful Life of Somewhere" thus closing a very delightful evening when will be long remembered by all lovers of music. The program acted as an accompaniment was very well complimented by Mr. Jarvis' piano concert which was given in the hall of the school, was one of the social events of the evening.

THE FORT REJOICED

WHEN THE C. N. R. ARRIVED

The Town Turned Out to Celebrate the Long Waited for Event

(from the Reporter)

Fort Saskatchewan and Winnipeg are connected by railroad! We have not heard if the Winnipeg people are properly celebrating the occasion, but Fort Saskatchewan, on Wednesday morning, November 7, 1905, welcomed the first railroad train to enter the town limits.

We could write picturesquely about the historic event; how the glorious Alberta sun (independent of politics) rose, at an early hour in the East, as usual; how Mayor Langworthy and Councillors Hunter, D. Simons, Foster, Shera and Easton, also rose at an early hour (not as usual) to take part in the ceremony of laying the first rail into the town; how the first rail didn't wait for the council but entered the town without official reception; how it was decided to perform the ceremony at the station; how the energetic mayor and his able-bodied council could not brook the delay, but rushed as one man upon a particularly fine looking rail, seized it and hurred it to their many homes, only to be told by the prosaic minded boys to "drop it," because it was the wrong rail; how the next rail proved to be the right one, and was well and truly laid by mayor and council; how the welkin rang with cheers from fair women and brave men; how our enterprising photographer performed feats of grateful daring on the station-roof with his largest camera, with which, at the right moment he immortalized the stirring scene; how the presence of some 150 males, tastefully bedecked with flags, added eclat to the proceedings—about all these notable happenings we might enlarge—suffice it to say that they occurred, and the railway in Fort Saskatchewan is an accomplished fact.

The Reporter congratulates its fellow citizens upon this happy occasion, more especially those old timers who have shown practical faith in the future welfare of Fort Saskatchewan through long years of waiting. May the advent of the long hoped for railroad open up a long era of ever increasing prosperity to the Fort and surrounding country.

Amidst many manifestations of public rejoicing, the C. N. R. entered the municipal boundaries of the Fort yesterday. The steel had been laid as far as the creek on the land side of the town on the previous day, but as the bridge which spans the creek was not quite completed its progress was arrested for a few hours; however at an early hour Wednesday morning the steel laying gang crossed, followed by an engine and freight cars. The occasion was celebrated by a holiday granted to the school children, and by the gathering of a large number of the inhabitants to witness the laying of a rail by the mayor and other citizens, when the steel had reached the centre of the town limits. A large number of Union Jacks had been distributed, and the engine was gaily decorated with bunting—many of the teamsters had also decorated their horses and mules with miniature flags, in some cases however, preferring to adorn themselves. The laying of the steel progressed with a rapidity which to the onlooker appeared to be little short of marvellous. Some familiarity with the process had made the workmen most skilful, every part being completed with dispatch and precision.

Nearly every prominent citizen was in evidence and Mayor Langworthy had many willing volunteers to assist him in handling the rail, which was accomplished amidst cheers.

It is doubtful whether the school children ever enjoyed a holiday more than yesterday—many of them had never before seen a railway engine. They clamored everywhere, no place was safe from their inquisitive investigation, they rode in the cab of the engine, on the front of the engine, they visited every car whether carrying rail or ties, they boarded the closed vans, some adventurous spirits were seen on the top of the cars; and when at one moment the engine went back a mile or two to bring up some more cars, it carried a human freight including the mayor and as many children as the front of the engine would hold, their delight was apparent.

That the sun shone brightly, as it generally does, however, in this part of Alberta, was a happy omen; and that a day of summer mildness prevailed, enabled all to take part with out any fear of ill results.

This event marks an important point in the history of the town, an event which has been hoped for, looked forward to, for many years; and the result of which cannot but be beneficial to the town and neighborhood.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

DEDICATION SERVICES SUNDAY

Rev John McNeill of Winnipeg Preached
Eloquent Sermons Morning and Evening

Citizens of all denominations in large numbers flocked to hear Rev. John McNeill at the First Baptist church yesterday.

The occasion of his presence in the city was the dedication of the magnificent new Baptist church just completed and opened for the first time yesterday, and a memorable day it will be in the history of the Baptist people of Edmonton. The weather was ideal, and long before the hour of commencing the morning service, the spacious auditorium was filled, and people were being turned away. Near the platform the order of service and the hymns to be sung, ferns and flowers decorated the platform in abundance. At 11 o'clock the choir entered and Rev. A. M. McDonald, pastor of the church made his appearance upon the platform, accompanied by Rev. McNeill. With him at his side were Rev. C. W. Corey, pastor of Strathcona Baptist church, Rev. C. H. Huestis of McDougall Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Reikie, of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Alexander McDonald, of Leduc.

The service opened with the doxology, and invocation by Rev. C. H. Huestis. A hymn was then sung after which Rev. Mr. Corey read the scripture lesson. Pastor McDonald then called upon Rev. Alex. McDonald to lead in prayer. He said that it was only fitting the Mr. McDonald who had been the pioneer and first pastor of the Baptist church in Edmonton and who was still doing outpost duty in Leduc, should lead in the prayer to dedicate the new church. After the dedication prayer the choir rendered most acceptably the anthem, "Far from my Heavenly Home", during which the offering was received.

Rev. John McNeill said that he would take no occasion to indulge in foolish compliments, but wished just to say a word in regard to the occasion which had gathered so many of the various congregations of Edmonton together in the beautiful building. The hearts of the people of the Baptist church must have been full of gratitude, he said, and the heart of the pastor over flowing with joy over the distinguished growth and success of their church. He had shared himself in the joy of a similar occasion. Rev. Alex. McDonald, of Leduc, he said, who was with them today must also feel a sense of deep gratitude and thankfulness. Rev. Mr. Corey of Strathcona, the pastor, Mr. McDonald of Strathcona, and himself of Winnipeg, were successors of Rev. Alex. McDonald, as he had been the pioneer Baptist minister in all these places. Truly "This was the Lord's doing, and it was marvelous in our eyes," when it was considered that twelve years ago there was no Baptist meeting place in Edmonton and now the congregation had this splendid new church in which to worship.

Rev. Mr. McNeill then read a few verses, the 11th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John, and took for his text the 9th and 10th verses. "Are there not twelve hours in the day? If a man walk in the day he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of the world, but if he walks in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him."

Mr. McNeill's discourse was on the duty and services of the Christian life and its purpose. The occasion of the words of his text being spoken by Christ was when He and his disciples were in Galilee and had received word of the illness of Lazarus at Bethany in Judea. When Christ announced his intention of going to Bethany, his disciples objected on the ground that the journey was fraught with danger both to him and to themselves and that it meant death to them all to enter Judea. Christ made answer to them in the words of the text "Are there not twelve hours in the day?" Christ had a purpose in life and a duty to perform, and he would not be called upon to die until that purpose was fulfilled. Christ did not hesitate when duty called. So every Christian has a duty and a purpose in life and he has plenty of time to perform that duty and to fulfill that purpose. He has the full twelve hours of the day. We are wise if we gather out of the Lord's words the interpretation of our own Christian service and duty.

The morning service was brought to a close by the singing of a hymn and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Mr. Corey.

At the evening service the church was even more crowded than in the morning, there being 1,600 in attendance. Rev. Mr. McNeill took for his text the words, "I am the way, and the truth and the light," and as in the morning the people were delighted with his discourse, which was most instructive. The singing of the choir was exceptionally good and the rendering of the anthems of "Come, ye thankful people, come," was greatly appreciated. Mr. G. H. McLeod also sang the solo "The Palm." The offerings at both services were liberal. At the close of the services, Rev. Mr. McNeill addressed a large meeting of the young people. Sanderson's hall, and gave the boys a good, straight-forward talk, which they appreciated greatly.

THE OFFENSE OF THE C. P. R.

[Calgary Alberta]

The conduct of the local officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the recent election was unusually offensive and grossly unfair.

The Liberals of Calgary had been advised by William Whyte, the General Manager of the road, that the officials in Calgary would be neutral and would take no part in the election.

The Liberals had previously made representations to the General Manager, remembering the conduct of certain officials in past elections. But whatever might have been the offense of the C. P. R. officials in past years, it was insignificant compared to the unfair methods adopted on Thursday to defeat the will of the electors in Alberta in order that a C. P. R. official should be elected.

A score or more of employees known to be Liberals, who, under the ordinary course of events would have been in Calgary, were shipped out of the city and deprived of their suffrages, while others known to be Conservatives, who were due for the road, were held in the city to vote for R. B. Bennett.

A prominent C. P. R. official made an exhibition of himself at one of the hotels, and illegally attempted to close one of the polls.

Another C. P. R. official acted as scrutineer in Gleichen.

If this is what Mr. Whyte of the C. P. R., calls fair play and neutral action, a sample of partisanship would be interesting.

The people of Calgary, who have the greatest respect and confidence in the fairness of William Whyte, are inclined to believe that the action taken by the local officials was in violation of the instructions which he issued. However, the fact remains that the C. P. R. used every method known to them to deprive Liberals of the franchise, and to assist Conservatives to cast their ballot, and that C. P. R. officials, even to the assistant to the second vice-president, acted the part of the offensive partisan in the election.

—A meeting of the members of Edmonton Lodge 23, A. O. U. W., will be held in Jap. McDonald's office on Friday evening, November 17, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is requested, as business of importance is to be discussed.

By order,
